

Message from Stone Energy Regarding the Horizon Spill in the Gulf of Mexico

We are deeply concerned about this event and particularly the safety of the responders and those who may be impacted by this event. We are also deeply concerned about the impact this spill will have on the environment. We have activated our Incident Management Team and are closely monitoring the communication being provided by the response through the Joint Information Center. We will continue to monitor events to protect our people and our assets. Our operations have not yet been impacted by this event. We will continue to communicate through this website with updates of information.
